Excerpt: . . . director plan and direct all experimental agricultural work conducted in the State, in consultation with and reporting directly to the Secretary of Agriculture and the dean of the State college of agriculture; (3) that the maintenance for the agricultural investigation in a State be supplied jointly by Federal and State appropriations, analogous to the plan followed in extension work. The director of the California Experiment Station, for example, would become director of the California bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture. All experimental work in the State, by the station and the department, would be planned jointly and conducted jointly under the supervision of the combined director representing the station and the State bureau, the director reporting to both the local and the Federal agencies. The funds would come from State and Federal sources. The details of this plan are not amplified in Dr. Webbers paper, and hence the full operation of the scheme is not altogether clear. Evidently these details would form a very large feature of the plan, and after its advisability had been accepted would he relied on to overcome the natural difficulties of such a realignment. In the opinion of the committee, if the operation of the proposed plan would in any way tend to lessen the probability of the maintenance of the experiment stations as separate units of the land-grant institutions, it would be a most undesirable step to take. The maintenance of the State stations as distinct...
